His Homecoming

By Cecily Allen.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Homer Sprague.

She was extremely fair to look upon. To Nat Gregory the realization of this fact was nothing new. But somehow just at this particular moment it was borne in upon him afresh and at a novel angle.

Her hair was blue black, so were her lashes, and her eyes were a wonderful blue, which, somehow, sometimes, turned to an equally wonderful violet.

The last time that Nat had looked into them his own had been full of stinging unshed tears. How could he stand six months in Panama with the light of those blue (or were they violet) eyes denied him?

But her notes had been so brief and unsatisfactory that even in hot, lazy Panama he had caught himself reading between the lines and finding there a selfish soul, the small narrow soul of the girl given to personal conquests, the soul steeped in admiration and fed on compliments.

She was smiling at him now across the car's broad aisle and above a great "granny" muff of gray squirrel. That huge mass of fur made her face look all the more piquant and dainty.

Occasionally the man on the right intercepted the friendly glances which Peggy Barton shot at the newly returned Gregory, and he glowered. Nat Gregory knew just how the chap felt. He had intercepted the same sort of glances, and they had made him squirm too.

She simulated a tiny cough and instantly raised the muff again. The cough was a good excuse for a fetching pose, but somehow the absurd little deception annoyed Nat Gregory. It is so sometimes with men who have had their minds and souls opened and broadened by travel and contact with men of affairs.

So he let his glance wander to the girl next to Peggy. She smiled at the returned traveler, too, but it was a different sort of smile, a wholesome, friendly smile, without any vague sense of ownership behind it. Peggy Barton always assumed that air with men—her sister Janet, never.

For, you see, Janet was the ugly duckling of the Barton family, famous for its pretty daughters and the good matches they made. Janet was the youngest, and she might not have been considered homely if Peggy had not been so brilliantly, scintillatingly beautiful by contrast.

There were those, principally women and young men without prospects, who said that Peggy Barton always dragged her younger and less attractive sister around with her as a foil.

Something of this was passing through Nat Gregory's head as he sat watching the little comedy. The other chap would be furious if Nat crossed the aisle and talked with Peggy, and Peggy would be furious if he did not. So he would strike a happy medium. He would join the party and talk to Janet.

How well he could remember their many trips together—Peggy, Janet and himself—to the links, where he and Peggy played golf and Janet sat on the veranda or disappeared in the woods where wild flowers were thick; to the matinee, where between the acts he and Peggy discussed the love interest of the play as if it were a personal matter, while Janet read the advertisements in the programme; to the rink, where he and Peggy skated together and Janet found some girl friend as a skating partner or sat against the wall making humorous mental comment on the circling tide before her.

What a jolly little beggar Janet had been in those days! If she had been bored she had never shown it, and—He was standing before the trio now.

The man, Fred Marsden, had been duly introduced. Peggy had turned the full battery of her wonderful eyes without the aid of the "granny" muff upon Gregory's tanned and clean cut face, and Janet had murmured something about "old times."

"I haven't skated—why, it is nearly a year since I've been on ice," he was saying to Janet. "I've a good mind to get admittance to this party and give you all a chance to laugh at my awkwardness. Do you think I could rent a decent pair of skates at the rink?"

Marsden was politely but not effusively reassuring. Peggy was mischievously pleased to pit the rivals on skates, and Janet just murmured, "Do come."

"I wonder how it will feel to the little girl if she has a real partner all afternoon," thought Gregory as he locked his skates. Before he and Janet had circled the rink a dozen times he realized that she was a splendid little person on the ice and a most appreciative listener, never giving thought to the tricksy steel beneath her trim boots.

No, she was not "out" yet. Next winter perhaps she might come out at a tea. She was still the little sister of the reigning beauty. And didn't he think Peggy handsomer than ever? He did, and he said so, with a heartiness and a lack of tenderness that a more experienced girl than Janet would have interpreted correctly.

They lingered so late that the rush of home going toilers caught them in its swirl on the return trip. When they reached Gregory's corner, Janet mechanically extended her hand.

"Indeed, I'm not going to leave you in this crush. I know I'm a self invited member of this quartet, but Marsden has his hands full to steer Peggy through the crush. You'll need me."

Janet flushed and dimpled. (Nat almost gasped. He had never seen a dimple in her chin before, but then Janet had never laughed up into his eyes in just that way.

"I'm coming up to call tomorrow night if I may," said Gregory as they drew near the Barton home.

"You'd better ask Peggy if she'll be home," said Janet soberly. "I think there's a dance on at the St. Andrew tomorrow evening."

"But you said you were not 'out' yet. You can't go to a St. Andrew dance," he said, with a fine assumption of elder brotherliness.

"Oh!" said Janet. And again the dimple cleft her chin.

"Fred Marsden is so tiresome," said Peggy as she permitted Janet to unlace her boots and spread out her dinner frock. "He seemed to think that Nat Gregory had no right to skate with me. And we were old friends before Fred moved here. Nat has improved, too, don't you think so?"

Janet bent down to plait a chiffon flounce that had not come unplaited.

"Oh, I can't see that he has changed any," she fibbed, her face now as rosy as the pink chiffon.

At that particular moment Nat Gregory was sitting before the grate fire in his room, fingering a parcel of letters tied with deep violet ribbons. Then he laughed—a short, chuckling, eloquent laugh—and laid the letters, ribbon and all, on the glowing coals.

"It was just when she peeped at me above that silly big muff! Of course I never really cared for her, but somehow I knew it was all up when she gave me that look to make the other fellow squirm. Heavens, how I used to squirm too! Now, Janet wouldn't make a man squirm. And where in time do you suppose she had been hiding that dimple? By Jove, come to think of it, I never looked to see whether she had a dimple or not in the old days."

For a few minutes he sat very quietly watching the mass of letters turn from flame color to yellowish pink and to pinkish gray. Then, whistling, he went down to the library, closed the door and picked up the desk telephone.

"Is Janet in? Yes, Miss Janet Barton. All right. Hello, Janet, is this you? This is Nat—Nat Gregory. Oh, I just happened to think that you did not answer my question. Are you going to the St. Andrew dance tomorrow night? No, you did not answer my question. All right, then, I'm coming, about 8:30. Nonsense! I used to call on—er—other girls before they came 'out,' All right—goodby. Oh, wait a minute. Say, I want to know—would you mind telling me—did you always have a dimple in your chin? No, really, I never did—goodby."

He hung up the receiver, crossed to the mantel and by the aid of the low, broad mirror readjusted his tie. But evidently this was done mechanically, for what he said very gently to the tanned, clean cut reflection in the glass was:

"Funny how some girls can say 'of course' and make it sound like something ever so much better. Funny—no, just great!" And then he leaned back in the most comfortable chair in the room and sighed contentedly. This was better than squirming, decidedly better.

Half a Loaf.

The negro's love of titles of whatever sort is amusingly illustrated by a story told by the governor of a southern state.

It appears that the congregation of a colored church in Georgia conceived the notion that it would add greatly to their dignity if the pastor of the church were enabled to add the initials D. D. to his name. A member, hearing of an institution in the north which would, for value received, confer such a degree, entered into correspondence with that end in view. Reply came to the effect that the sum of $75 would obtain the desired dignity.

A difficulty arose, however, in that the congregation were unable to raise more than $39. Finally, after much confabulation, the congregation delegated one of their number to see the thing out. The following message was sent to the institution mentioned:

"Kindly forward our pastor one D., we being unable to afford the other at this time."—Harper's Weekly.

"Pelorus Jack."

Near the mouth of Pelorus sound, on the Nelson side of Cook strait, is the home of a remarkable sea animal known throughout New Zealand as "Pelorus Jack." He is gray in color, about fourteen feet in length, and his pastime is to wait for coastal steamers and to escort them for several miles on their journey. As a boat approaches "Jack" may be seen heading toward her to take up his accustomed position beside or in front of the bow of the vessel. There, sometimes for twenty minutes, he hovers round, rushing so quickly from side to side that the eye can scarcely follow his movements. When he considers he has gone far enough, with a last sudden plunge he dives once more and for the last time, disappearing in a whirl of foam, to be seen no more that trip.—Sydney News.

Kilts as Targets.

Admiral Lambton at a certain highland society dinner told the following tale: When the Gordon highlanders were in Ladysmith the order came that officers were not to wear their swords. This order was soon supplemented by another, by which all highland regiments were commanded to cover their kilts up, as it was thought that they served too well as targets for the enemy. Sir George White knew that such an order would not be popular. At last he thought of a way out of the difficulty. "Let them cover the fronts of the kilts up," he said. "The enemy will never see the other side."—London Opinion.

DOG INTELLIGENCE.

The Clever "Malamutes" That Carry the Mails In Alaska.

The Eskimo begins to train his dog for sledge work before it is a month old. One of the most interesting features of Eskimo villages are puppies tied to the pole of a tent. They pull on the rope with all their puppy strength in the effort to break away and join in the frolics of their elders.

Not until a dog bred for mail service is one year old is it put in training for the trail. It begins by running ten miles with the team; then it is dropped out. Next day it runs the same distance. Gradually the distance is increased until it reaches its fifteenth month of life, when it becomes part of the regular service. The life of a mail dog is from three to four years. No greater punishment can be inflicted than to lay a dog off from service. When unruly they are often threatened with a lay-off, and with almost human intelligence they seem to understand the disgrace it implies in the eyes of their fellow workers on the trail. All fight to be leaders. A constant spur to an unambitious dog is the "outsider," who will quickly take away the leadership not only in the mail service, but in teams maintained chiefly for the pleasure of the sport. The intelligence of the malamute is remarkable, its scent wonderful, its instinct, as a rule, unerring.

Some dogs are better trail followers than others, as some are better leaders. In a blizzard the best of them lose the trail, but invariably find it. When on the trail they never eat but once a day, then at the end of a journey. After feeding, like weary children, they fall asleep and are never quarrelsome. It takes on an average twenty pounds of food a day for a team of eleven dogs on a hard route.—Lida Rose McCabe in St. Nicholas.

Navy Is Never Done.

A navy, like a railroad, is never done. There never comes the grateful moment when the work can be said to be finished and the sole task left to be discharged is that of operation. As the roadbed, track, equipment of a railroad must be constantly maintained and improved, so if there is to be any navy at all equipment must be constantly improved and brought up to date, even under the policy of "replacement and repair."—Boston Transcript.

Royal Crowns.

Royal crowns have tended to become lighter. Thus, one made in the middle ages weighed over seven pounds, that of George IV. weighed five and one-half pounds, while Queen Victoria's crown, containing the great ruby which belonged to the Black Prince, weighed three and one-quarter pounds.

A Good Talker.

"They say her conversational powers are immense."

"Is that so?"

"Yes, sir. They tell me that girl once talked clear through 'Parsifal.'"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

At the Bargain Counter.

"That sharp tongued Miss Redpepp has been saying some mighty mean things about you and your wife."

"What, for instance?"

"Says you picked her up at a bargain counter."

"Great Scott, I did! She was the prettiest girl that ever stood behind one."—Chicago Tribune.

Professional Faster—I should like to undertake a fast of four weeks in this show of yours. How much will you pay me. Showman—I can't give you any salary, but I will pay for your keep.—Fliegende Blatter.

There is as yet no method of progress known to men that is so rich and complete as that which is ministered by a truly great friendship.—Phillips Brooks.

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities incident to women only. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulæ of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

The Naval Display Typifies Administration.

A GLORIOUS blaze of Americanism—that is descriptive of the great assemblage of fighting ships in our harbor and what could be more characteristic of the present administration. President Roosevelt's entire career in national affairs has bristled with the startling and nothing could close this career so effectively as the sending of the naval fighting force of the United States around the world. He has blazoned the fame and the actuality of our country as a power among the powers by every act and deed. He has given voice to the most radical views and penned the most caustic messages of any President of this decade. He believes that our own people and those of foreign waters need vigorous reminding of American force. He is no hand for pomp and ceremony in the merely abstract. He believes in personal touches and concrete illustration. So he sent forth the Taft party to acquaint him first hand with the attitude of foreign powers and to give these in turn the benefit of American citizenship and American sentiment, for no formal documents can carry the weight that personal interview can. And now comes the fleet to show the world that we are not all talk and statesmanship, but that we are backed up by actual fighting force, and an elegant array it truly is.

Amidst the blaze and splendor of celebration attending the reception of the Admirals and the fleet the President's name was scarcely mentioned and yet the whole thing was so characteristically Roosveltan that his personality constantly asserted itself and the man behind was very evident. Any one who witnessed the reviews, the parades and particularly the nightly illuminations with the searchlight maneuvers will agree that in no other administration would such a spectacle seem so natural. In other administrations we may muster greater forces and equip our navy to do actual battle but in no other administration does an assemblage like this and for similar purposes seem likely to ever again occur. It is a stroke of state almost without precedent, but the good that will accrue from it is without question We wonder if it may not revolutionize the methods of other powers who have been wont to keep their fighting force tied up in times of peace. They may not think it provident to get rusty while the United States is so well brushed up. We have taken the initiative and what will follow is a matter of keen speculation.

Desirable Immigrants.

PROMOTING immigration of the right sort from Italy is advocated for this State by students of the immigration problem who would displace the Orientals, and we cannot deny that this class of immigrants is for the most part very desirable. We cannot be exclusionists altogether. We need reliable agricultural labor and co-workers to develop our resources and strengthen our citizenship and from past experience and actual observation we know that the Italian immigrant is adapted and adapts himself to our clime. He has a value right on the start from the fact that he comes from a country not unlike our own State and is trained to the industry of the agricultural districts. He learns rapidly and assimilates readily. His thrift and provident management makes him well-to-do in many instances. He gives his children advantages and as a result the second generation is as progressive and intelligent a portion of our citizens as we could desire. Those who have seen the immigrants of other countries and been forced to live among them agree that the Italians are a superior type.

Immigration should always be restricted to the well-meaning and the wholesome and with a properly supervised commission we could get this class from Italy, the country which has proven that it can furnish us with the making of some very excellent people.

THERE is a growing belief in the pewer of suggestion and no where is this power utilized to such advantage and so effectively as by the merchant who uses the newspapers for advertising. He is enabled to grip the attention of the reading public, which is also the consuming public, and by attractive suggestion creates a demand for his goods. Attractive advertising literally hypnotizes customers. The passing glimpse of the goods themselves will not bring a customer into the store like a well-written ad. He may have skepticism which only the convincing tone of advertising will dispel He may have no idea of buying, but advertising will create the idea if that idea is uncultivated during his leisure—the time he gives to reading.

ALTHOUGH it will be several months before the county nominating conventions of the two political parties meet in this county to name candidates for Supervisors quite a number of names have been mentioned in this district to succeed Supervisor Blair Hart. Among the Republicans J. K. Bigelow and Geo. Breitenbach of this place and J. H. Weise of Glen Ellen have been frequently mentioned. The Democrats also have several possible candidates The most prominent among these are Blair Hart of Vallejo township, to succeed himself; Robert P. Hill of Eldridge and Ed. H. Johannsen of this place. The contest over the Supervisors in this county promises to be a red-hot one in which party lines may be completely eliminated, but this will depend largely upon who are the opposing candidates.

SONOMA, MAY 16, 1908.

Official Paper of Sonoma.

Popular Society Girl of Oakland to Wed.

Miss Louise Hall of Oakland and who has numerous friends in this valley is soon to become a bride. At an afternoon card party given to fifty girl friends at her Piedmont home, one day this week, she announced her engagement to Harry T. Hays, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hays of the San Joaquin Valley. The girl friends who had been bidden to spend the afternoon at the card tables were agreeably surprised with the news of the betrothal. Miss Hall is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hall of Piedmont, and an attractive member of the younger set in Oakland. The date of the wedding has not been announced, but will probably take place late in the fall.

MAYOR APPOINTS NEW COMMITTEES

Peculiar Fitness of Each Trustee Considered in Bestowing all the Chairmanships.

At the May meeting of the City Trustees, held on Thursday night of last week, Mayor Geo. Breitenbach appointed the following committees to serve during his term of office :

Streets and Sidewalks—McDonell and Wagnon.

Plaza and City Hall—Bates and Quartaroli.

Finance and Legislation—McDonell and Quartaroli.

Printing—Wagnon and Bates.

Electric Lights—McDonell and Wagnon.

Cemetery—Bates and Quartaroli.

Fire and Water—Wagnon and McDonell.

It will be observed that Messrs. McDonell and Quartaroli compose the finance and legislation committee of the Board. This means, in order to carry out the wishes of the people as expressed at the polls at the recent municipal election, the repeal of the present obnoxious license ordinance and the drawing up and passage of a new one.

It will furthermore be observed that the thoughtful Mayor, having an eye out for the best interests of his constituents, has appointed Trustee Wagnon chairman of the printing committee. The importance of this appointment cannot be expressed in mere words until the vocabulary of the English language be modified. For has not Mr. Wagnon, with a wise and knowing look on his countenance, expressed himself in open meeting after a brief sojourn in the metropolis in quest of knowledge, that he knew all about the art of making printing bills. Of course the Creator never intended Mr. Wagnon for such a job. But that is neither here no there. He thinks he knows it all and the new Mayor evidently humored the whim.

Trustee Wagnon is also made chairman of the water committee, as a reward, perhaps, of his futile efforts to make this a dry town.

Trustee Bates is made chairman of the cemetery committee. This appointment was evidently made with a view of giving him complete charge of the obsequies of the present license ordinance when it will have become defunct.

Verily, the new Mayor is a facetious dignity.

New Time Card of Northwestern Pacific.

The Northwestern Pacific railroad's new time card, which went into effect last Saturday morning, changes the time of departure of its morning passenger train from 6.18 to 7.06. The afternoon train leaves at 4.02 as per the old schedule. There is quite a difference in time in the arrival of both the morning and afternoon trains from San Francisco and way stations between the old and the new schedules. The morning train now pulls into town at 11.20 instead of 10 o'clock and the evening train at 7.43 instead of 7.15, as formerly.

The departure of the morning train nearly an hour later under the new schedule is very satisfactory to the patrons of the road especially the drowsy, lay-abed ones. The late arrival of both the morning and afternoon trains from San Francisco, which carry the U. S. mails, is causing some dissatisfaction, however, as people here cannot get the daily papers as early as formerly.

THE REPUBLECAN STATE CONVENTION.

The Regulars Defeat the Leaguers and Elect Knight Chairman.

The Republican State Convention which convened in Sacramento Thursday was controlled by the regular organization, the Leaguers being in a hopeless minority.

There was a line up and test of strength of the opposing factions when Geo. A. Knight was nominated for chairman of the convention by the Regulars and W. R. Davis by the Leaguers. The balloting which followed resulted in Knight's election by a decisive majority. The vote cast was as follows : Knight, 351 ; Davis, 275.

The organization also elected all of its delegates to the National Convention except Otis of Los Angeles, who was defeated by one vote by Jacob Neff of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League. The delegates are Geo. A. Knight, Henry A. Melvin, M. H. de Young and Jacob H. Neff.

The delegates were instructed to vote for Taft for President.

The Sonoma county delegation of eighteen members split, ten going with the League and eight standing pat with the organization.

A New Physician Locates Here.

Dr. C. J. Schmelz, a well-known practicing physician of San Francisco and who stands high in his profession, has permanently located here and his professional card will be found elsewhere in these columns. He has brougat his family with him and leased the Dal Pogetto cottage on Second-street East, which will be his office and residence. The doctor was one of the victims of the earthquake and fire in the metropolis two years ago in which he suffered a heavy loss. The climate and the future possibilities of Sonoma has induced him to locate here.

William Livernash Making Good.

Will Livernash, a Sonoma county boy and brother of Mrs. Frank Koenig of this place and ex-Congressman E. J. Livernash of San Francisco, is attracting considerable attention in the East as a composer of music. Mr. Livernash's latest production, a two-step, has called forth the following flattering notice from the Kansas City Journal :

"Mr. William Livernash, who has recently come to Kansas City to make his home, has composed a two-step called "Bumble Two-Step," which has made quite a hit in New York and is also to be brought out in London. It is a sprightly descriptive composition suggesting a bee's nest, which is quite animated enough to serve as a theme for a polka. He is the composer of "Cheer Up," written immediately after the earthquake, and also the "Gaiety Girl" march and numerous other compositions."

Card of Thanks

My entire family join me in returning thanks to our many friends for their sympathy and numerous kindnesses in the hours so saddened by the loss of one so dear to us all as was my wife. And especially do we extend thanks to Dr. C. J Schmelz for his untiring and skillful efforts in doing all that was in the power of man to do.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

That New Power Line.

The Snow Mountain Water and Power Company, which has secured pole line franchises throughout this valley and almost every other section of the county for the distribution of light and power, is again getting busy. The company recently completed its pole line from its power house on Eel river to Ukiah, Mendocino county, and according to the local papers of that city will at once commence the extension of its pole line into this county via Cloverdale and the contract for the work has already been let to the San Francisco Gas and Electric Company and much of the material has been laid down along some portions of the right of way.

The Foster Rock Crushing Plant.

Foster's rock crushing plant at Sears' Point is again in operation after a short suspension. A shute has been built from the quarries on the hill overlooking Behler's slough by means of which the crushed rock is loaded on barges, saving the expense of hauling and unloading the same. The quarries are giving employment to a large number of men and are said to pay Mr. Foster a handsome profit on his investment.

Mrs. Chapman's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Rockwell Chapman, who died here in childbirth on Thursday night of last week, took place Sunday. The young wife and mother was buried in Mountain Cemetery in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The infant, which survives the mother, is getting along nicely.

Little Ottie Hiser, the eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hiser of this place, died at the home of her parents Sunday from the effects of spinal meningitis after being bed-ridden five months. The five children of Mr. and Mrs. Hiser were stricken with the dread disease last December, and two died within a week. Dr. Leix, the attending physician, worked heroically over the other children for weeks and succeeded in saving two of them. He never had any hopes, however, of the ultimate recovery of the child that passed away Sunday, as the disease had left her paralyzed and a physical wreck and death came as a relief to her. The surviving children are getting along nicely and may yet outgrow the after results of the dreadful malady.

The funeral of little Ottie took place Tuesday and she was laid tenderly to rest beside her brother and sister in the Mountain Cemetery.

TOBACCO TAGS BRING FINE PRESENTS

Tobacco Company Redeeming Tags From Many Brands.

According to reports from the local dealers in tobacco more people are saving tobacco tags than ever before in the history of the giving of presents in exchange for tobacco tags. This tremendous increase in tag saving is due to the action of the American Tobacco Company in offering a remarkable list of valuable presents in return for tags from various popular tobaccos.

Such brands as Master Workman, Spear Head, Horse Shoe, Standard Navy, Old Statesman, Sailor's Pride, Granger Twist and about a dozen others, bear tags which can be exchanged for presents. An idea of what can be accomplished by so far-reaching a co-operative system is gathered from such sample offers as the giving of an English steel razor for only 50 tags.

Reports in the tobacco trade indicate that dealers throughout the country are laying in stocks of presents in order to be able to meet the rising boom in tobacco tag saving. In places where the dealers are not supplied with presents, the American Tobacco Company is redeeming by mail—tag-savers selecting the presents they wish from a free catalog.

Spring Medicine

The best is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the best because it does the most good.

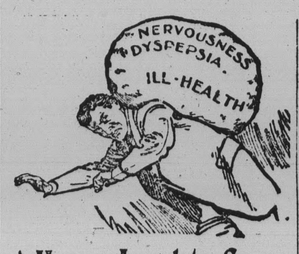
While it makes the blood pure, fresh and lively, it tones the stomach to better digestion, creates an appetite, stimulates the kidneys and liver, gives new brain, nerve and digestive strength.

An unequaled list of cures—40,366 testimonials in two years—proves its merit.

Sarsatabs—For those who prefer medicine in tablet form, Hood's Sarsaparilla is now put up in chocolated tablets called Sarsatabs, as well as in the usual liquid form. Sarsatabs have identically the same curative properties as the liquid form, besides accuracy of dose, convenience, economy,—there being no loss by evaporation, breakage, or leakage. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass.

Mrs. J. F. Gee, 50 Gould Street, Stoneham, Mass., says: "In 25 years experience I have never known Hood's Sarsaparilla to fail for spring humors and as a general blood purifier; it cures scrofula, eczema; has no equal as a general spring medicine. It gives me genuine satisfaction to say this."

Entered at the Postoffice at Sonoma, Cal., as Second Class Matter. Under Act of Congress of 1879. No. 224.



A Heavy Load to Carry

"ALL IS WELL THAT ENDS WELL."

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness and general ill-health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be properly digested, and its products assimilated by the system. On the other hand the blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion, and in turn the nerves are not fed on good, red blood, and we see symptoms of nervousness, sleeplessness and general breakdown. It is not head work that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor, thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip, bronchitis and consumption. Fortify the body at once with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—a rare combination of native medicinal roots without a particle of alcohol or dangerous drugs.

No man is stronger than his stomach. Let the greatest athlete have dyspepsia and his muscles would soon fail. Physical strength is derived from food. If a man has insufficient food he loses strength. If he has no food he dies. Food is converted into nutrition through the stomach and bowels. It depends on the strength of the stomach to what extent food eaten is digested and assimilated. People can die of starvation who have abundant food to eat, when the stomach and its associate organs of digestion and nutrition do not perform their duty. Thus the stomach is really the vital organ of the body. If the stomach is "weak" the body will be weak also, because it is upon the stomach the body relies for its strength. And as the body considered as a whole is made up of its several members and organs, so the weakness of the body as a consequence of "weak" stomach will be distributed among the organs which compose the body. If the body is weak because it is ill-nourished that physical weakness will be found in back and knees, in hands and feet equally. So also will the weakness be equally distributed among the organs, heart, liver, kidneys, etc., being proportionately weak according to the amount of the reduction of their daily ration of nutriton.

By way of exampie take the case of the Assistant Treasurer of the Catholic Foresters at Quebec, Mr. Louis Pare, who writes:

"For years after my health began to fail, my head grew dizzy, eyes pained me, and my stomach was sore all the time, while everything I would eat would seem to lie heavy like lead on my stomach. The doctors claimed that it was sympathetic trouble due to dyspepsia, and prescribed for me, and although I took their powders regularly yet I felt no better. My wife advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—and stop taking the doctor's medicine. She bought me a bottle and we soon found that I began to improve, so I kept up the treatment. I took on flesh, my stomach became normal, the digestive organs worked perfectly and I soon began to look like a different person. I can never cease to be grateful for what your medicine has done for me and I certainly give it highest praise."

THE SECRET OUT.

To refute the many false and malicious attacks, bogus formula and other untruthful statements published by competing and disgruntled medicine men concerning Doctor Pierce's World-famed Family Medicines the Doctor has decided to publish all the ingredients entering into his "Golden Medical Discovery." Hereafter every bottle of this medicine leaving the great Laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., will bear upon it a full list of all the ingredients entering into the compound, printed in plain English.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets

These ORIGINAL Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago, have been much imitated but never equaled. They're made of purely vegetable, concentrated and refined medicinal principles, extracted from native American roots and plants. They speedily relieve and cure foul, torpid and deranged Stomachs, Livers and Bowels and their attendant distressful ailments. One or two a laxative, three or four a cathartic.

WORKED HIS WAY.

The Job an Energetic Student Took to Cross the Atlantic.

Jack had paid his way always. Out of the poverty of his childhood he had fought his way through the university. After graduation he felt he must see Europe, and with the little accumulation he had he "crossed the pond," trusting to good luck to get home again. But, his trip of sightseeing over, he found himself in Liverpool without money and with no means of getting any.

He thought he would just go down to the steamship, go on board and see how it would seem if only he were going home.

As he wandered over the big liner his attention was attracted by a crying baby. The mother was traveling alone, and while she was attempting to see to all the thousand and one details incident to the beginning of an ocean trip the baby had resented the neglect he felt he had received and was crying. The mother was at her wits' end.

Jack's kind heart prompted him to say: "Let me take the baby, madam. Perhaps I can keep him quiet until your preparations are made."

This request, so unusual from a stranger and especially from a man stranger, naturally filled her with surprise, but she looked Jack squarely in the eye for a second and trusted him. "I wish you would," she said.

Jack's care was extremely satisfactory to his babyship, and when, in a half hour, the mother was ready to reclaim her child she found a happy baby cooing and trying to devour a bunch of keys at one gulp.

She laughed as she took the youngster and thanked Jack. Then she added, quite in fun, "I wish you were going clear across."

Jack saw his opportunity. He said: "Madam, I'm a college student, out of funds and longing for home. If you will pay my passage to America I will take care of your baby all the way across."

His proposition was accepted, and he kept his word. He is a prominent lawyer now, and he looks back with considerable amusement to his experience in getting home from Europe.—Youth's Companion.

MURDER OF THE SEAL.

The Way the Animals Are Slaughtered by the Hunters.

The ice echoes no footfalls, so the murder of the seal is a stealthy act. Yes, it seems like murder. On the pan lies a whitecoat alone. Up to it hurries one of the hunters. Lifting his bat above his head, he measures the distance; then, swinging downward the iron shod point, he strikes the skull of the seal such a blow that it is crushed in as if of pasteboard. Tossing aside the bat and whipping out the scalping knife, while the creature is still quivering, with a swift undercut and two or three side strokes the keen blade has severed the hide and the layers of fat beneath so they can be rolled into a pelt, the hide holding the fat in its folds. The next whitecoat is with its parents. Their hide is coarser, but worth having, so the gunner takes a quick aim, lodging a charge of shot in the head of the growling mate just at the base of the brain. Here the skull is thinnest. One of the batters stands guard over the blowhole to prevent the mother from escaping, while another bats the cub. Then the female, who would desert her offspring to save her own life, is clubbed on the head. A few strokes of the knives and three more bloody carcasses crimson the ice. The pelt of the first seal is piled with the other three in a pan. The flagman sticks a flag by its side, and the hunters hurry forward, leaving the pelts to be towed back to the ship when the hunt is ended.

Thus the slaughter continues hour after hour until nightfall only ends the stroke of the bat and thrust of the knife. If it began at daybreak the field may be strewn with thousands of dead seals, for if the pan of ice is thronged with them, as is sometimes the case, a hundred men will kill ten times their number in a day, since most of the seals are harps, which seldom try to protect their young, and are slain without attempting to defend themselves.—Day Allen Willey in Metropolitan.

Bunions and Rank.

"It is extraordinary," writes Sir Henry Drummond Wolff in "Rambling Recollections," "to observe in England the weakness that most people have for boasting of their friends in high places and the deference that they show to them. The daughter of a lady of very high rank had some pain in her foot which the mother asked the governess to be good enough to look at. The latter after examining it said, 'If it were not for her ladyship's exalted rank I should say it was a bunion.'"

Joy.

Joy in life is like the oil in the lamp—when the oil commences to fail, the wick burns with a glimmering red flame, filling the air about it with a black smoke. Life also without a little joy burns unprofitably, filling the air with depression and sadness.

Man's Place In This Eternity of Space and Matter.

The solar system is but a fragment of the universe. Every star is a sun with a solar system. It is possible that there may be millions of planets inhabited by beings higher or lower than ourselves. What we see going on is what we call the process of evolution—from broken fragments to coherent masses and to inhabited worlds, from chaos to cosmos, a struggle upward of the universe from something lower and disorganized to something higher and organized.

As to how life originates on these planets science is ignorant at present. It is an entire mystery. I would not have you build too much on that. I do not think it will always remain a mystery, nor would I have a theologian shaken in his views if science should discover something about the nature and origin of life. I want you to realize that this process of evolution is not a process which negatives or excludes the idea of divine activity. It is, I venture to say, a revelation to us of the manner of divine activity. It is the way the Deity works.

The attempt to show that evolution is unguided, that it is the result of absolute change, fails. What is pointed to is not unguided random change, but guided change. The other could not be done in time.

What we have to realize in regard to our place in the universe is that we are intelligent, helpful and active parts of the cosmic scheme. We are among the agents of the Creator. One of the most helpful ideas is co-operation—helping one another. Co-operation—this in a new and stimulating sense—co-operation with the Divinity himself. —Sir Oliver Lodge.

The Martian Sky.

The clearness of the Martian sky comes in to abet the greater transmission of its air. From dawn till dusk day after day in the summer season and largely in winter the sun shines out of a heaven innocent of cloud. No shield of the sort and only a little screen of air tempers its beams to the soil held up to it. Such an exposure far exceeds anything we have on earth, for with us, even in the tropics, clouds gather as soon as the heating grows excessive and cool the air by plumps of rain.—Percival Lowell in Century.

Heard at the Drama.

Mrs. Ryetop—John, how much time elapses between the second and third acts? Mr. Ryetop—The programme says six months. Maria. Mrs. Ryetop (aghast)—Six months, John? Lands, we can't wait! Why, them buckwheat cakes I left to riz will have gone clear through the roof by that time!—Chicago News.

Involved.

Binks—I notice that you have a thread tied round your finger. I suppose that is to remind you of something. Jinks—Not exactly. It is to remind my wife to ask me if I forgot something she told me to remember.—Harper's Weekly.

Force of Habit.

Lady (formerly a telephone girl)—Porter, why didn't you call me, as I instructed you? Sleeping Car Porter)—I did, ma'am. Sure's you're born, I did. I said, "Seven-thirty, ma'am," an' you said, "Line's out of order."—Pick-Me-Up.

COSTLY MATTRESSES.

The Kind That Are Used on the Big Plate Glass Wagons.

Probably about as costly a sort of mattress as any is one that is made not to sleep on at all, but to spread on the long, broad table or platform of the wagons built for carrying plate glass.

These mattresses, which are made of curled hair, are very thin, scarcely thicker than a comfortable, and must be made with the greatest care to insure perfect uniformity of thickness. A lump anywhere would be likely to break the plate of glass resting upon it, and there would be still greater danger if the weight of two plates of glass was rested on the lump at once.

A mattress for a plate glass wagon costs, according to size, from $60 to $75. In use the corners of smaller plates carried on it cut into the ticking covering, and sooner or later it has to be made over. Simply to make over such a mattress costs from $20 to $25.

On the table topped and mattress covered glass wagons the biggest plates are carried with confidence and safety. The table is built to remain absolutely rigid, and the thin but uniform mattress protects the plate from jar.

Before plate glass store fronts had come into common use, when the handling of a big plate was counted as a good deal more of a job than it is now, they used to carry a great pane of glass in a sort of frame, which was put on the wagon with the glass in it. At its destination this frame or support was worked carefully across the sidewalk to the store front, where the glass was dislodged from it to be set, and altogether the setting of a great plate of glass was then quite an undertaking.

Now, with the setting of such plates a common daily occurrence and with men skilled in the handling of them, they simply carry a big plate out and lay it on their mattress covered table topped wagon and carry it to where it is to go and there slide it off, to rest it for a moment on blocks on the sidewalk, and then they pick it up and carry it to the window front.

Then they run under the lower edge of the glass lifting straps, by which men standing inside the window as well as men standing outside can lift on it when the glass is put into place in the window frame. There again it is raised on blocks until the straps can be withdrawn, and then the blocks are taken out and the glass secured in place, all this being done with great care, but still with comparative ease and quickness and with certainty, and in these times great panes of glass are thus moved and set on all but the windiest days.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Try This For Catarrh.

Free tests are now being supplied by mail to all Catarrh sufferers. There is no expense—no obligation whatever.

Dr. Shoop is combining Oil of Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, Oil of Wintergreen, etc., and is incorporating these ingredients into a pure, snow-white cream-like Imported Petrolatum. This Creation—Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy—gives immediate and lasting relief to catarrh of the nose and throat. That all may first test it free, these trial boxes are being mailed without charge, simply to encourage these tests and thus fully demonstrate, beyond doubt, the value of this combination.

If Catarrh has extended down to the stomach or bowels, then Dr. Shoop's Restorative must also be used internally if a complete cure is to be expected. Otherwise the Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy will alone be entirely sufficient. Write Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. for sample and book. Sold by Druggists everywhere.
